To Whom It May Concern:

Education Through Music (ETM) is happy to have had the opportunity to partner with Harmony 4 All, a youth-led nonprofit dedicated to advancing educational equity through access to quality music education for underserved New York City students.

Earlier this year, Harmony 4 All provided critical funding that enabled ETM to repair twelve school-owned band instruments at PS 154 in Queens—an ETM partner school serving a predominantly low-income, Title I student population. These repairs directly supported our joint goal of expanding the school's band program from 35 to 50 students, creating opportunities for more children to engage meaningfully with music. Thanks to their contribution, students at PS 154 now have access to functional, high-quality instruments that will enrich their educational experience for years to come.

We share in Harmony 4 All's mission to ensure no child is excluded from the joy and growth of music because of financial hardship, which aligns with ETM's own commitment to educational equity.

ETM looks forward to continuing our partnership with Harmony 4 All and working together again in the future to ensure that every child has access to the power of music.

Sincerely,
